

End Table vs Side Table

End tables and side tables are small tables that can be used for a variety of purposes such as decoration, storage or as an aesthetic addition to a free space or corner. Ashley HomeStore has a wide collection of end tables and side tables in a variety of styles, materials and designs.

01

Purpose: The primary purpose of an end table is to hold items like books, drinks, etc, while that of a side table is to place decorative items, serve food items and drinks or use it as a workplace.

02

Size: End tables are usually smaller than side tables, as they are made to fit into smaller spaces. Side tables can be larger and are meant to hold larger things like table lamps.

03

Style: Both end tables and side tables come in a variety of styles to suit different needs and tastes. Ashley HomeStore provides uniquely designed tables with modern features and accessories like USB charging docks and pull-out trays.

04

Placement: A side table is typically placed anywhere, while an end table is placed at the end of a seating area like a sofa or armchair.

05

Material: Both types of tables are made from an assortment of materials depending on their style. Common materials used include metal, glass, marble, and wood.
